Reds Call Off
Corridor Flights

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet command called off a scheduled new harassment tactic Wednesday night in the sensitive air corridors to isolated West Berlin. In Washington, two hours later, President Kennedy warned that continuing Soviet harassment in the Berlin air corridors could lead to counteractions that could only intensify dangers.

The Soviet Union had stepped up its campaign of annoyance by scheduling night flights in the corridors for the first time. It was part of an obvious move to keep the Berlin pot boiling despite Western protests at the Geneva disarmament conference against trouble making in the three 20-mile-wide corridors.

The Russians canceled their night flight scheme just before the planes were due to take off. Western officials said that a Soviet officer in the Berlin Air Safety Center called off four scheduled flights.

Keller Petition
Is Reinstated

HARRISBURG (AP)—Dauphin County Court ruled Wednesday that state Sen. Marvin Keller, R-Bucks, may file amendments to legalize his nominating petitions for the May 15 primary election.

Shortly after the ruling, Keller submitted the amendment to the state Elections Bureau. It was accepted and his candidacy certified.

The bureau on Monday rejected Keller's petitions because 63 signatures were dated after the notary public had attested to the authenticity of the petitions. The strikeouts left Keller's petitions below the 200 signatures required for nomination for the state Senate.

Siragusa said the presence of Red Chinese in Havana has brought a serious new narcotics traffic to America's eastern shores.

The vote was 146-1. The measure was sent to the Senate for final legislative action.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, however, offered no clue to when the body would act on the measures.

Pipher To Mrs. Kennedy Rides With Withdraw Lancers; Feeds Elephant

Stuart F. Pipher

STUART Pipher of Tannersville today announced that he will withdraw his candidacy for the Democratic nomination of Representative in the General Assembly of Monroe County.

Mr. Pipher stated that he will seek the office of Monroe County Democratic Chairman.

Pipher said his immediate objectives are first to increase and strengthen the Democratic Party's majority registration and to stimulate young blood and new ideas for the betterment of the community.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The pretty young horsewoman from the White House took the jumps of an Indian riding course Wednesday, outdoing some of the best of President Rajendra Prasad's colorful lancers.

Jacqueline Kennedy donned jodhpurs and swung into the saddle of a borrowed bay mare for the familiar diversion in a day of such unfamiliar things as feeding a baby elephant and watching a snake charmer pipe a swaying cobra from a basket.

The presidential bodyguard lent her the mare and 10 men of that scarlet-uniformed command accompanied her to the riding grounds.

Performed Well
Not all performed as well as she.

Mrs. Kennedy and the mare soared over brush jump, triple bar, road cross and stile and gate without a fault.

The lancers went over the course first.

Capt. Bhowani Singh was thrown, suffering a minor leg injury. Singh is the son of the Maharaja of Jalpur, who will be Mrs. Kennedy's host later in her nine-day visit.

Newsman were filled in on details of her unexpected outing by U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith.

Crowds Applaud
Indians by the thousands again applauded Mrs. Kennedy on her rounds.

Shouts burst from a throng of 4,000 or more clustered in front of a boys' rehabilitation home where she made her first call of the day.

In the flower garden of Prime Minister Nehru's home, she presented the children of India a portable playroom and art studio, a prefabricated eight-sided structure that is still en route with art accessories from the United States.

Nehru's daughter and hostess, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, on behalf of Indian children, gave Mrs. Kennedy five dolls dressed in Indian regional costumes and 12 water color paintings which won top awards in a New Delhi school children's art contest last week.

Feeds Elephant
It was just before that ceremony that Mrs. Kennedy fed Nehru's baby elephant, a gray, 600-pound female named Urvashi-Fairy. Laughing, she handed the elephant milk, sugar cane, carrots and bananas in swift succession. Even a gladiolus garland that she placed on the elephant's head served as more than decoration.

"Oh look!" Mrs. Kennedy said, "she's eating it."

The snakecharmer, too, performed at Nehru's home. The turbaned specialist slipped in a back gate, placed his basket on the lawn and piped out the cobra as Mrs. Kennedy watched.

Dr. Edward Magann, chairman of the Policy and Personnel Committee presided at the meeting which was attended by 29 board members.

Dr. Magann discussed the many phases of the insurance program and told the group that the present insurance coverage was arrived at after many years of planning.

In 1957 the plan was first begun as surveys were made in the system on the insurance needed, he said. As the years passed, and the insurance program expanded, the school planned to acquire a broker of record in 1959.

Finally in 1961, Dr. Magann said, the Crowe Insurance Company, East Stroudsburg was selected for that capacity.

The duties and responsibilities of the broker of record were outlined last night to the board members by Walter McClelland, representative of the Crowe firm.

In addition, McClelland answered questions that were posed from the floor.

In summarizing the meeting, Dr. Magann said the school committees felt "they should get the very best protection." He also said the whole insurance program was not in the hands of one or two individuals but that the actions "took place over a number of years."

Gov. Lawrence Promises:

Information Available To Both Candidates

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Lawrence said Wednesday that Republican William W. Scranton had the same right as his Democratic counterpart in the race for governor to look over state government functions.

The subject came up at Lawrence's weekly news conference when the governor mentioned that Richardson Dilworth, Democratic organization candidate for governor, was in Harrisburg. Lawrence said Dilworth was spending some time in various departments "acquainting himself and getting some information that is of interest to him and will help him in his campaign."

A spokesman asked whether the same privilege would be extended to Congressman Scranton, the Republican organization choice for that party's nomination for governor.

"Anybody can come here and look around," said Lawrence, adding: "There is a lot here to see. It might give him some idea of state government if he would look it over. We are very proud of what has happened here and we want everybody to see it."

(In Washington, Scranton said he would be glad to discuss any problems of state government with Lawrence. Scranton said he had arranged to discuss matters of state government with Republican legislators. As for Dilworth's presence in Harrisburg, Scranton said he thought it would "do my opponent a great deal of good to learn something about state government.")

Other Developments
Other news conference developments:
Traffic Safety—Lawrence, making another report of highway safety statistics for 1961, said there were 2,492 fewer accidents than in the previous year and 8,795 fewer persons injured.

Lawrence credited his traffic safety program for the reduction in accidents and fatalities. He declined to pinpoint any one factor as the major contributor to the reduction.

"It was the combined effort of all elements," he said.

Travel—The governor said he will depart for Japan April 3 on a trip sponsored by the Conference of American Governors. He will arrive in Japan April 5. His visit will end April 18.

Elections Bureau—Lawrence termed as "a poor piece of business" the Elections Bureau's handling of nominating petitions for the May 15 primary election. He said he was "upset" at Alber Eberman, bureau director, because processing of petitions was still under way two days after Monday's filing deadline. Lawrence said he had heard that Eberman closed the bureau at 11 p.m. Monday, "that isn't the way we operate," added Lawrence. "he should have stayed there until every last bit of information had been given to the press as to filings."

Kennedy Calls On Conference
To Seek End To Nuclear Race

OPENING SESSION OF DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE — This is a general view inside the Palace of Nations in Geneva March 14 as representatives of 17 nations sat at squared conference tables for the opening session of talks on disarmament. (AP Wirephoto by radio from Geneva)

Says U. S. Must Retain Lead
Till Agreement Is Reached

GENEVA (AP)—The United States made its opening impact on the disarmament conference Wednesday with a White House appeal for a safe end to the nuclear arms race and a warning that in the cold war America must maintain nuclear might in the Atlantic Alliance.

The appeal from President Kennedy was addressed to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and was made public here and in Washington at the Kennedy news conference.

As the 17-nation conference got under way in an atmosphere of hope that the spread of nuclear weapons might be halted, the President called on negotiators to work to reverse the course of history and achieve a complete end to the nuclear weapons race with adequate treaty safeguards.

The warning was in a statement of U.S. nuclear policy sent in a letter from Rusk to U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant.

Replying to a U.N. questionnaire, Rusk declared that the United States is opposed to the spread of nuclear weapons power beyond the four nations that have it now. These nations are the United States, Britain, Russia and France.

Must Be Prepared
But Rusk stressed that America will keep up the nuclear striking force of the West until effective international agreements on disarmament and peace are achieved.

The Rusk and Kennedy letters were made public by the U.S. delegation as the conference formally began its work.

In his letter, the President predicted the disarmament task would be long and he warned against pessimism.

"We must pledge ourselves at the outset to an unceasing effort to continue until the job is done," he said.

Kennedy instructed Rusk to seek to define in treaty terms "the widest area of agreement that can be implemented at the earliest possible time" in the disarmament field.

U.N. Resolutions
The American definition of nuclear policy came in response to U.N. resolutions sponsored by Sweden, Ireland and Ethiopia aimed at heading off both the spread of nuclear weapons and their use.

The Soviet answer to the same resolutions Monday night also referred to the need for keeping nuclear weapons out of the hands of nations which do not now possess them.

The Russians linked their idea with old Kremlin proposals for atom free zones in Africa, central Europe and undefined regions in the Pacific.

No New Nations
The fact that the Russians, like the Americans and British, say they want to see no more new nations brought into the so-called atom club, led the hopes that a pact to prevent the spread of such devices could be attained at the conference.

Preliminary talks among the heads of the U.S., British and Soviet delegations held little promise of any quick successes.

The conference itself opened with France unrepresented in line with President Charles de Gaulle's decision not to participate. He has said the proceedings are useless.

In a 30-minute session, the delegates from five Eastern bloc, four Western and eight non-aligned countries got negotiations rolling again after a two-year lapse.

No Genuine Hope
Just before the delegates assembled, U.S. sources said preliminary talks with Gromyko since Sunday had failed to disclose any genuine hope of concluding a treaty banning nuclear tests.

Thus the indications were that the United States would begin its series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere in late April, as President Kennedy has said it would, if no agreement is reached here.

Gromyko was said to have stuck to the line that any international checking system on disarmament steps would amount to a Western espionage network on Soviet soil.

Nothing On Berlin
Preconference talks failed, too, to discover any basis for real negotiations on Berlin. However, talks on Berlin will continue outside the conference, it was reported.

Rusk and Gromyko will make the major speeches at the conference Thursday and outline the disarmament ideas favored by their two countries.

Gromyko was expected to produce Soviet Premier Khrushchev's formula of two years ago calling for complete and general disarmament within four years.

Geneva Conference Is Main
Topic At JFK News Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Wednesday that the Soviet Union was taking "a particularly dangerous kind of action" in lacing the air lanes to Berlin with metallic chaff.

Especially while the Geneva disarmament conference is under way, Kennedy told a news conference, it would seem that both sides should bend every effort "to avoid incidents that are liable to lead to actions and counteractions which can only intensify the danger."

Avoids Direct Answers
The President didn't answer directly a question whether the United States contemplates any countermeasures to discourage the Russians. But he said the harassment poses additional hazards to an accord on Berlin.

Dr. Magann discussed the many phases of the insurance program and told the group that the present insurance coverage was arrived at after many years of planning.

In 1957 the plan was first begun as surveys were made in the system on the insurance needed, he said. As the years passed, and the insurance program expanded, the school planned to acquire a broker of record in 1959.

Astronaut
Curbs Rowdy
Teenagers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. was cursed and an attempt was made to slug him in an encounter with rowdy teenagers at the church he attends in Arlington, Va., last Saturday night, police report.

Glenn easily restrained his assailant and was not injured.

Police Sgt. Warren Siske said this is what happened:
Glenn, during a brief stay at home after the honors that followed his successful orbit flight, went to a home in Arlington to pick up his daughter from a teenage party.

Upon arrival he found a rowdy group of youths who apparently had been refused admittance to the party.

One of the gang threw a beer can into the yard and Glenn ordered him to pick it up, giving him 10 seconds to do so. Words were exchanged, but the youth obeyed.

When the Marine Corps lieutenant colonel emerged from the house he heard some of the boys say they were going to the teen center at the Little Falls Unit Presbyterian church.

Thinking that they might cause trouble there, Glenn drove to the church to assist his pastor, the Rev. Frank Erwin. At the church, Erwin had asked the boys, who were misbehaving, to leave the teen center. One of them had started cursing.

Glenn ordered the youths who were misbehaving to leave and, after they retorted with derisive remarks, he said he would record the license number of their car and call the police.

A boy jumped in front of the license plate to obscure it. As Glenn pushed him aside, one of the teen-agers swung at the astronaut, who promptly pinned the boy's arms against the car. Others came from the church to help.

Glenn then went into the church and called police, but the gang fled before police arrived.

Irish Eyes Will Smile Saturday Night

Graff's Epic Tuning In 50th Year

By Tony Cesare
Daily Record Reporter

A HAUNTING refrain, "smiles, eyes, smiling" over and over again the words stayed in the mind of a young songwriter as he slowly made his way home. The year was 1912 and the place was New York City—the home of songwriters.

Walking from 37th to 42nd Street, the young professional was pressed for time. The publishers needed the song for one of the top shows of that era.

Then it occurred! Why not "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling?" The bubbling, hard working writer was George Graff.

Now 75 years of age, the widely-known lyricist retraced yesterday the steps that led to one of America's greatest songs. This year is the 50th anniversary of a tune that grows with the years instead of declines as many songs do. Fifty years after the original piece was printed, Graff is still as popular—if not more so.

Composed

Graff, residing leisurely at the Perm-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg for the past 20 years, composed "Irish Eyes" in three hours.

From the time he left work at 5 p.m., to 8 p.m. when he finished his dinner, he had the song written. Within minutes after completing the words, he typed the song and handed it to his publishers.

"Smiles?" Graff said that this is a beautiful word. But why Irish?

"The Irish was inserted in the title because the tune was for an Irish show — "Isles of Dreams."

That succinctly was how "Irish Eyes" was born. But the story that follows covers some 50 years.

Saturday is St. Patrick's Day, and as has been the occasions, "Irish Eyes" will flow as great as any song that day.

The song is revered by every brother of an Irishman, but the unassuming gentleman of German and Dutch descent states simply:

"I have already taken more bows for 'Irish Eyes' than necessary."

For fifty years the lyricists have taken those bows, but for as long as there are songs, "Irish Eyes" will be around to provide some warm sentiments.

Graff's second biggest number, however, is no longer as popular. His "Till Desert Sands Grow Cold" sold over 2½ million copies.

"Irish Eyes" is still being sung in many ways, including jazzed-up versions, said Graff. But this did not phase the writer.

"No matter how they sing it, there is always the royalty," he said with a slight smile.

Graff said in the recent years, the song has sold several hundred thousand rolls used for roller pianos alone.

Agreement Broken

Many years ago, when Graff first moved to the Poconos, he had talked to local newsmen. They agreed not to mention his secret as Graff sought to live as he pleased behind the limelight of the music world.

But eventually the gentlemen's agreement had to be broken when the movie "Irish Eyes Are Smiling" was produced and George Graff again was in the midst of the spotlight.

It was soon after that Graff was hit with the expected. Through his fame, he was stepped by amateur song writers who wanted assistance, by autograph hunters, by those who had offered him work and by those people who just wanted to get acquainted.

Just the sort of thing he hoped to avoid—did take place.

More recently when he appeared on the television show "I've Got A Secret," the effects were similar. His fan mail, which was already heavy, increased. Pleas for help in getting songs published, notes of surprise that the writer of such an old tune was still around, and even marriage proposals faced Graff.

To some this might prove an interesting experience. But to Graff, who is constantly in the public eye, he would prefer quieter moments.

Berlin Wall Is Permanent

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists gave further signs yesterday of their intention to make the wall dividing Berlin a permanent fixture of the landscape.

The East Germans opened a solidly built barracks-like structure on the Communist side of the wall at Checkpoint Charlie where foreigners enter and leave East Berlin.

In the past, foreigners stood outside an apartment building while East German border guards inside checked their passports. Now foreigners are ushered into the neatly painted barracks where they wait in comfortable stuffed chairs.

Newspaper Advertising Readers Are Ready To Buy!

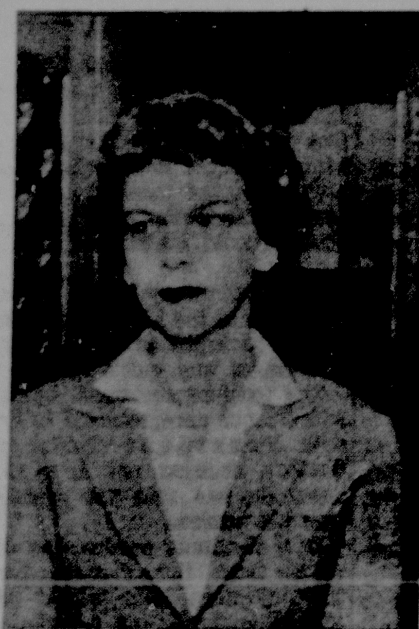

Newspaper readers are attracted to your advertising because it interests them. They are more apt to be live, "ready-to-buy" prospects than is the case with readers and viewers of other advertising media.

Live prospects are easier to sell. They actually shop the newspaper ads—they want to be sold, and are looking for information to help make a buying decision. Take housewives, for example—research* proves that 75% of them check the ads in the daily newspaper before making their main shopping trips of the week.

It's that kind of readiness on the part of newspaper readers that can mean ready sales for you!

Exhibition Of Sketches At Center

AN EXHIBITION of sketches in color and craft articles from Mexico and South America is now being shown for the third winter in succession by the Pocono Art Center, at their Gallery, above the Penney Store, Stroudsburg.

This is a special presentation for the school children in the sixth grades, who are studying these areas.

The paintings show pastels and colored ink sketches done by David Harrison, and the craft articles were collected by him and Mrs. Harrison during their extensive travels throughout these southern regions. This year the sketches are supplemented by fifteen paintings, in oil and other media, done by Mr. Harrison as a development of these experiences.

Mrs. Harrison will meet any one, any classes, or groups interested in seeing the paintings and craft articles, and will talk about them, and what it is like to be in South America, by special appointment, phone HA 1-0947. Or phone the Pocono Art Center, HA 1-5988.

Dates when this show will be open to the public will be announced. The Pocono Art Center has a collection of paintings for loan at a nominal charge.

'Jobs For Youth' Drive Underway In Pennsylvania

CATHERINE A. Coyne, executive director of the Bureau of Employment Security, said yesterday that all 110 Pennsylvania State Employment Service Offices are engaged in a massive effort to find jobs for young people in Pennsylvania who are out of school and out of work.

Pennsylvania's "Jobs for Youth" drive is part of a nationwide campaign to find jobs for unemployed youth under 21 and bears the slogan, "Put Youth on a Job — Today's Investment, Tomorrow's Profit."

"All of our local offices are geared to conduct an active and continuing campaign in cooperation with management and labor groups, educators, PTA's, civic and religious organizations, fraternal and veterans' organizations at both the State and local levels," Coyne said.

Miss Coyne said the seriousness of a growing shortage of qualified workers in many occupations makes it imperative that employable young men and women under 21 be considered today to fill the predicted gaps in the work force.

"Hiring young trainees now will provide a more capable and skilled work force so that our State and Nation can capitalize on their abilities in the years ahead," she said.

"These young people are quick to adapt to an employer's pattern and quick to acquire work habits that will result in higher efficiency and maintain future production and profits."

Miss Coyne advised employers who are seeking young workers and young job seekers themselves to go to their local public employment offices for employment assistance.

James D. Smith, 18, and Harold A. Transue, 19, both of Minisink Hills, entered the pleas at a hearing before Alderman David T. Reibman of Easton. Bail will be set by the court.

The pair was arrested by State Police Tuesday and charged with burglary. Troopers said they took the antiques from Poco Lake Barn in Upper Mt. Bethel Township near Portland and sold them to East Stroudsburg antique dealers.

The articles, stolen since January, were a desk, dresser, cabinet, cedar chest, mink stole and several straight razors, police said.

The Administration's tax proposals, somewhat modified in committee, are expected to be reported out of the House Ways and Means Committee about the middle of March. Although the Administration contends that this legislation has been designed specifically to make possible business expansion and economic growth, business and industry leaders have almost unanimously opposed the proposals.

This means that the business leaders believe, upon analysis of the proposals, that a measure supposedly designed to help them to expand as they wish would not do so, but would instead damage business and therefore imperil economic growth and increased employment.

Industry's objections to the bill, in part, are as follows:

The $1.8 billion investment credit proposal is a subsidy with control features, which would distort business decisions, and increase the tax graduation and tax discrimination between companies. It does not provide any significant net new capital, because the proposal would make up most of the revenue loss to the Treasury by devices to raise taxes on business.

Treatment of expense deductions in the measure substitutes the Government's judgment for management's judgment on what are necessary business expenses. (The Internal Revenue Service already is empowered to disallow expenses that are not reasonable and necessary.)

The proposed approaches to taxation of foreign operations of U. S. business would upset tax rules that have been in existence, in some cases, as long as the income tax itself. Industry considers some of these proposals both unreasonable and unworkable. Rep. Byrnes (R., Wisc.) of the Ways and Means Committee says that these changes amount to proposing that "American business should surrender to foreign competition in the world market."

Proposals to withhold taxes from dividends and interest at the source would place a great burden on many investors and on business institutions, and withholding is unnecessary because of the imminence of IRS installations of computing equipment and a taxpayer numbering system designed to keep track of such payments.

Treating business sales of personal property under ordinary income rather than capital gains provisions would result in higher taxes for business—certainly standing in the way of expansion.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Poor Clergymen!

Do you ever get the feeling you're being put upon? That the entire world and all its inhabitants is set on making conditions utterly repulsive for you, personally? We have the understanding that psychoanalysts have a word for this condition although we're not interested enough in it to find out what it is.

All we're interested in is the fact that there is another group of people who seem to be just about as misunderstood as newspaper editors. If you don't believe it, just read the following little article from The Churchman which describes "Our Minister."

"If he is young, he lacks experience; if his hair is gray, he is too old; if he has five or six children, he has too many; if he has none he is setting a bad example. If he is attentive to the poor, he is playing to the grandstand; if to the wealthy, he is trying to be an aristocrat.

"If he suggests improvements to the church, he is a dictator; if he makes no suggestions, he is a figurehead. If he uses too many illustrations, he neglects the Bible; if not enough, he is not clear. If he condemns wrong, he is cranky; if he does not, he is a compromiser.

"If he fails to please everybody, he is hurting the church; if he does please everybody, he has no convictions. If he preaches tithing, he is a money grabber; if he does not, he is failing to develop his people. If he receives a large salary he is mercenary; if a small salary, it proves he is not worth much. If he preaches all the time, people get tired of hearing one man; if he invites a guest preacher, he is shirking his duty. They say the clergyman has an easy time!" —Boyetown Times

Affirmations

Earle Goodrich Lee of St. Paul writes to object:

"... you refer to the Declaration of Independence as giving to this nation a philosophy of life based on natural law, which you interpret as meaning that 'all human beings are created by God equal in his sight.' That is not natural law. It is merely religious assumption."

"If the God to which you refer can see no difference between an intelligent white man and an ignorant African savage, it would seem to me that He has very poor eyesight."

First of all, the phrase, "Natural Law" is a technical term in philosophy and has been so used for many centuries. It was probably first employed by Cicero, although the concept antedates him, to distinguish between the natural endowments divinely set in man's nature and the law manufactured by man by edict or legislation. I did not invent the term.

As for the Declaration of Independence, it is a very different document from most revolutionary proclamations. While it does state all the evils imposed on the colonies by George III, it also lays down a philosophic reason for revolting which is justified irrespective of George's misconduct. These words are:

"When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights..."

Intelligence and ignorance are universal, just as gentility and boorishness are universal. The cradles of civilization have always been among mixed races of man: Egypt, for instance, was the admixture of Semitic and Hamitic peoples; the Crescent of Fertility on the Arabian Desert into which poured human beings from three continents, producing the Judaic-Christian as well as the Islamic civilizations.

Greece, into which came peoples from Africa and Asia; China, into which flowed the mixed races of Northern and Southeastern Asia, and Rome, from which much of our own civilization grew and into which many wars and conquests brought the peoples of Africa as well as Asia.

Ann Fremantle in the "Great Ages of Western Philosophy" states the problem we are discussing this way:

"Man, we know, invented the wheel, the pulley, the arch, the internal combustion engine, the airplane. He discovered electricity and split the atom.

Yet who or what was this 'man'? Very, very few men have invented or discovered anything; most men, through all the ages, and still today, are dwarfs who couldn't even figure out how to set an egg up straight or how to light a fire by rubbing sticks together, unless borne aloft on the shoulders of the giants."

How then can there be such a concept of equality. The child born with a cerebral palsy is not equal to a child who was born undamaged; the child born in a geographically wrong place, let us say the Congo, is not equal to a child born in a favored place; the son of a Rockefeller is not equal to the son of a day-laborer—and vice-versa. The inequalities of man are too numerous not to be obvious.

But the Declaration of Independence does not say that they are equal; it says that they were created equal—and that is something very different. When Thomas Jefferson and his colleagues wrote the word, created, they separated man from all else in nature, recognizing the moral character of man.

Albert Einstein said all this in another way:

"... To make clear these fundamental ends and valuations, and to set them fast in the emotional life of the individual, seems to me precisely the most important function which religion has to perform in the social life of man. And if one asks whence derives the authority of such fundamental ends, since they cannot be stated and justified merely by reason, one can only answer: they exist in a healthy society as powerful traditions, which act upon the conduct and aspirations and judgments of the individuals; they are there, that is, as something living, without its being necessary to find justification for their existence."

The Pennsylvania Story

Concern Among 'The Regulars'

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—There is growing concern among some of Pennsylvania's GOP "regulars"—that is, the professional party warhorses—that the May primary may not turn out to be a "signed, sealed and delivered" package after all.

Evidences of concern within GOP regular ranks are becoming noticeable over the adamant and persistent gubernatorial candidacy of State Grange Master J. Collins McSparran who so far has refused to bow out of the picture in favor of the single GOP slate picked by party leaders.

Monday is the last day for candidates in the May primary to withdraw—and Republican old pros are holding their breath in the hopes Mr. McSparran will be among those withdrawing. Indications from the McSparran camp however indicate that some busted lungs will be the order of the day in GOPland—inasmuch as he insists he has no inclination whatsoever of stepping out of the gubernatorial running.

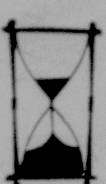

The McSparran candidacy is the only bright light on an (obviously) otherwise power-packed strictly partylime primary rigged to the hilt "for" Pennsylvania's voters—for without the McSparran

10 Years Ago

Seven soldiers from an Army base in New Jersey were injured on Route 611 about 200 yards west of the Blue Note Inn, Delaware Water Gap. Their car was forced off the highway by an unidentified car.

West End Fire Company was called to the home of LeRoy Shupp to extinguish a fire. The roof of the house had caught fire from heat caused by an overheated stove pipe that passed through the roof.

The Stroud Courier, East Stroudsburg State College newspaper, was awarded first place at Columbia University Scholastic Press Assn. It was one of more than 500 college newspapers entered in the contest.

Jesse F. Haynes resigned as Civil Defense Director in Stroud Township. He gave "ill health" as the reason for retiring.

20 Years Ago

Miss Sheila Rubow won the annual oratorical contest in Stroudsburg High School.

An ice storm moved into the county and covered most of the area with ice. Highways were in a bad condition to travel.

Two cars collided at the Eagle Valley Intersection causing little damage and no injuries.

Joe Mullins gave up playing baseball with the Detroit Tigers and entered the Army.

The issue this year could become as simplified as that; the question then being whether the "free electorate" could produce sufficient votes to override the machine vote.

In a nutshell the issues could boil down to one of the people versus the political old pros, or more simply put: McSparran versus the machine.

This is what the Republican primary campaign boils down to—and should McSparran by some chance win in May, what the general election in November would be reduced to.

This is a fact of life some of the political warlords are beginning to face up to as they head into this thought-to-be "rigged" primary, as this column termed it last week—and as the Corry Evening Journal subsequently referred to the primary, suggesting (as did this column) the futility of voting in the primary with only single candidates.

In fact so "rigged" is the primary to date that one wire service (supposedly confined to "reporting facts") opined that this year—"referring of course to the two party gubernatorial candidates, Republican William W. Scranton and Democratic Richardson Dilworth, both Yalemen, (McSparran is a Penn State lad.)

Pennsylvania's party-rigged primary may be unrivaled yet. At the moment it revolves around McSparran and whether he will withdraw from the Republican primary Monday—or remains in the race as he so far has insisted he will do.

Off The ### Record

By Bob Clark

We often wondered why Uncle Fred always took a firm grip on his suitcase and would never let it go for love or money. Apparently the family's black sheep knew it would cost him once the bag got into the hands of another person.

Well we learned the hard way at a New York hotel the other day. We didn't mind the perpetual shelling out of tips on a hit-and-miss journey from the hotel room to a cab. It was just that we worried that we'd never see the suitcase again. Call it sentimental reasons if you like. Anyway no suitcase ever took such a roundabout way to move into a waiting taxi on the Gotham's Great White Way.

From the room (third floor) to the ground level it is about 100 yards. This was easy to traverse. In fact even the suitcase didn't mind it. But the other 25 yards to the street, that's the story.

Complications first set in when the bag and myself got off the elevator in the lobby. No less than two fellows greeted the opening of the door. Then a third popped in and all three tried to get the suitcase at the same time. You would have thought Lincoln's original Gettysburg address was inside.

Finally the last became first and he toiled the thing away, shouting back, "you want it checked, don't you?" Before we could answer he was around a corner of the lobby and out of sight.

We chased and ran the bellhop down just as he was putting the traveling bag into a dugout called the baggage room. With one swoop of the hand he had two bits and was on his way. It was here we accosted the baggage man and for another quarter we got the bag back. While paying off for the last service, another guy, labeled "porter" picked up the suitcase and started charging toward the lobby.

This time we moved faster and caught Number Three Boy in the middle of the doorway. But not before a rather twenty-five cent piece changed hands. Horribly we toiled the suitcase to the cashier's desk to check out. Before paying the bill we took a long look around and confidentially placed the bag on the floor. But it wasn't there a second before another hand grabbed, took off and called back, "You'll want a taxi, won't you sir."

Giving in we nodded yes and started off after the hustler, knowing, of course, he would go only as far as the taxi stand. This had to be it, we thought. But we were wrong again. The doorman had to get in the act before we finally dropped exhausted alongside the suitcase in the rear of cab. In between two hands shoved forward. And each pulled away richer.

As the taxi streaked down Broadway we looked sadly at the dilapidated suitcase. We had coughed up more for its safety in the last half hour than what the time-beaten bag actually cost. Aside this nerves were shattered and a shaken man was turned into a poor man's track star.

It must have been for sentimental reasons.

Fall Campaigns Set Pace For 1964 Drive

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President Kennedy is already beginning to set the stage for his re-election drive—still more than 2½ years away.

Active planning and organizing is underway on a far-ranging campaign schedule that in more than two months, from September to election eve November 5, will take him from one end of the country to the other, with sorties to Hawaii and Alaska.

Immediate purpose of this exceptionally heavy midterm electioneering is to retain Democratic control of Congress and to give a helping hand to state Democratic candidates. But equally at stake are the President's own re-election ambitions in 1964.

This year's all-out campaigning will be a full-dress rehearsal for his 1964 battle.

All preparations are being expressly tailored toward that end. That is graphically shown by the unusual scope and nature of this year's electioneering plans.

They call for the President's campaigning in every major northern and western state, hitting some of them several times. In addition, he will appear repeatedly on national and state radio-TV broadcasts.

Also significantly, the President is eagerly offering to go to bat for state and congressional candidates—although there is no dearth of requests for his help. Already more than 200 House Democrats and a number of senators and governors have asked him to campaign for them. None have been turned down. All have been assured they can count on his doing his utmost for them.

In every way the President is unmistakably indicating his intention to make this year's election battle the staging ground for his own re-election fight in 1964.

Where He's Going—Barring a grave international crisis that would require the President to remain at the throttle in Washington, the wide-ranging campaign schedule he and his political lieutenants already have mapped out for September and October includes the following: Massachusetts—Regardless of who wins the Democratic senatorial nomination—the President's youngest brother "Ted," or State Attorney General "Eddie" McCormack, nephew of Speaker McCormack—the President will go all-out for him, as well as try to wrest the governorship from incumbent Republican John Volpe. Plans call for the President's spending two days campaigning in his home state.

Connecticut—A full day of electioneering, winding up with a statewide broadcast at night in behalf of the senatorial candidacy of HEW Secretary Ribicoff and the incumbent state Democratic slate.

New York—At least two campaign visits, one upstate and the other in Manhattan, for senatorial and gubernatorial candidates still very much up in the air. Privately, the President has scant hope for either of these offices, but will electioneer hard in New York to boost his own prospects for 1964.

Pennsylvania—Two campaign trips are slated, in the populous eastern and western sections. The President already has promised Senator Joseph Clark and Philadelphia's former Mayor Richardson Dilworth, the party's gubernatorial candidate, "to spend as much time as I can working for you." They have him scheduled for major electioneering speeches in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Ohio—Another state where the President will spend at least two days, and possibly more. He definitely committed himself to that to induce Governor Michael DiSalle to seek re-election after announcing he was through. The President told him, "If you will run, Mike, I'll electioneer the state from one end to the other for you."

So far, Senator Frank Lausche, D-O., has asked no help from the President, and has been offered none.

Illinois—Representative Sidney Yates, Democrat, senatorial candidate against Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, also has categorical assurances from the President of all-out support. Yates, long a strong backer of the President, is a political protégé of Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley, who in effect put the President in the White House by piling up a Cook County margin that swung Illinois into his column. Yates is telling friends, "The President is going to campaign for me in a big way. He's not only going to do that in Chicago, but in the rest of the state, too."

Wisconsin—Governor Gaylord Nelson has a similar promise for his campaign against Republican Senator Alexander Wiley, seeking his fifth term. Nelson backed the President in his crucial 1960 presidential primary victory in Wisconsin, and the latter feels much indebted to him.

Nebraska—Governor Frank Morrison, whom the President fondly calls "the election miracle of 1960," already has had two planning talks with him on campaigning in the state. Morrison faces extremely tough opposition from former Interior Secretary Fred Seaton, is "running scared" and making no bones about it. He is especially anxious to get all the help he can from the President, and is set to get a lot.

Idaho—Senator Frank Church also has discussed an electioneering trip with the President, and while plans are still tentative, the state is definitely on his itinerary.

Nevada—So is this state. Senator Alan Bible rates high in the President's books, and is slated for a hearty boost from him. So far, Republicans are up in the air over their candidates against Bible, but he is taking no chances and is campaigning vigorously for a third term.

Colorado—Senator John Carroll will need all the help he can get for a second term, and the President has promised to give him a hand. He has also told Carroll he will line up other high-powered Democratic campaigners for him.

California—The President will throw his Sunday punch for the Democratic state headed by Governor Edmund Brown and Richard Richards for senator. The President has a twofold interest in doing that. Former Vice President Nixon, to whom he narrowly lost the state in 1960, is Brown's likely opponent, and the President is particularly eager to even the score by re-electing Brown and shelving Nixon for good.

Alaska and Hawaii—Senator Gruening, Alaska, is very hopeful the President will spend at least one day there, and that is on his schedule. Similarly, the President has told Representative Daniel Inouye, much-decorated amputee World War II veteran, he will fly to Hawaii to campaign for him if he runs for the seat from which Senator Long is retiring.

Also tentatively on the President's schedule are Kentucky and Washington, where Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt is running against Senator Thurston Morton, former Republican National Chairman, and Senator Warren Magnuson is seeking a fourth term.

Magnuson has no serious opposition as yet, but Wyatt faces rough going in Kentucky. He is being bitterly attacked in his own party by a strange alliance—former Governor "Happy" Chandler and former Senator Earle Clements. Once bitter political enemies, they have joined forces to defeat Wyatt.

PV Board Probes Complaints

BRODHEADSVILLE — Pleasant Valley Joint School Committee went into executive session at its meeting last night shortly after the meeting opened. The closed session was to hear complaints from three parents and one member of the school committee against an employee of the jointure.

The employee was suspended, a school official said. Prior to going into closed session it was learned that the matter has been turned over to Monroe County District Attorney James R. Marsh for an investigation by his office.

District Attorney Marsh said late last night, "The situation at the school has been reported to my office and the State Police have been in charge of the investigation since last Thursday. Other than that I have no comment to make at this time."

The joint committee put aside for the moment action on the hiring of a teacher, discussing the proposed budget, and a report of the well group to air the complaints of the parents.

The proposed budget for the 1962-63 school year is $486,656.60. This is the amount scheduled to be presented to the joint committee by the budget committee and with it, if approved, comes an increase in millage in the three townships in the jointure.

Millage Increased
The millage in Chestnuthill will be increased 3.43 mills, Polk Township increased 1.804 mills, and Ross Township increased one-half mill. These millage rates are not complete, there are many factors that must be taken into consideration before the actual millage can be established.

For example, all fractions from the state have been reduced. This lowers the state appropriations and when this is done the millage must be increased to provide the money necessary to operate.

Action to be taken in hiring a teacher is due to Christine DeHaven resigning as Fourth Grade teacher in Chestnuthill Elementary School. The teacher suggested to the board to replace her is Grete Ewe.

Hospital Honors Volunteer Vets

The example of volunteers who have served the Monroe County General Hospital, some for as many as 47 years, was set before the volunteers now embarking on the public phase of the million dollar fund campaign to expand that hospital's facilities.

At a tribute dinner at the Peas-Stroud Hotel last night, those honored included four living presidents of the hospital board, six members of the board of trustees who have served for 25 years or more, and the presidents of three volunteer units.

Hand-lettered, hand-illuminated citations read: "We give of talent, time and heart. That you have given them to the General Hospital of Monroe County we do hereby publicly proclaim. For these gifts, we the residents of the Poconos, express our heartfelt appreciation and pay tribute to one who has labored so energetically for our common good. 'The only true gift is a portion of thyself' — Emerson."

Presented Citations
Clifford R. Gilliam, general chairman of the campaign in the late 40s which provided the wing completed in 1951, presented the citations. He equated the terms of John N. Gish who served from 1919 to 1940 and Frank S. LaBar, 1951-58, both of whom consolidated and developed major expansions of the hospital.

Also equated were the terms of Edward C. Jenkins and the present president, Jere H. Stofflet, under whose administration major expansions were tackled. Citations were also presented to members of the board of trustees serving for 25 years or more: Mrs. Raymond Price, Mrs. Nelson T. Beers, and Arlington Williams.

and will be presented to Mrs. Fred W. Davis, Mrs. Joseph Swaine and Howard L. Keiper who were not present.

Receiving citations on behalf of the volunteer units which they head were: Mrs. Harold E. Ingraham for the Gray Ladies of the Red Cross; Mrs. William W. Gorman for the General Hospital Aux. and Mrs. John R. Wellington for the Anna Logan Society in recognition of their organizations' services to the hospital.

Also Eulogized
Also eulogized were three former presidents, now deceased: Luther Hoffman, C. Howard Palmer and Charles R. Bensinger Sr., with the host of other devoted citizens including Mrs. James Booth "mother" of the hospital, Mrs. Ed Albert, Mrs. W.F. Ellenberger, Frank Metcalfe, Frank L. Patterson Sr., and W.E. Van Vliet.

Arlington W. Williams, campaign chairman, and himself a veteran of more than 25 years as a trustee, had another shining example to set before the workers: the "Hospital Family" phase of the campaign has brought in $222,000 from members of the board, employees and the doctors themselves, who alone have contributed 15 per cent, a record he held up proudly in comparison with any similar campaigns anywhere.

Resorts Over Pledged
The resort campaign also over pledged its quota, he pointed out, pledging $285,000.

A million dollar campaign represents the largest single amount ever raised in the community. Williams said, but can be made if the workers whom Clifford Cramer in introducing called "The conscience and heart of the community" followed the example set in previous campaigns.

25 YEARS OF SERVICE and more were recognized in citations presented to board members, Mrs. Nelson T. Beers, center, and Mrs. Raymond Price, by Arlington Williams, present campaign chairman, and himself a veteran of more than 25 years on the board. Others to receive citations will be Mrs. Fred W. Davis, Mrs. Joseph Swaine, Howard L. Keiper. (Staff Photos by MacLeod)

"No man owns his own time or his own money, when both are the gifts of his Creator," Williams said, "We all owe a debt of gratitude and thanksgiving we can only repay by giving part of ourselves to the community."

"No cause has greater merit than the expansion of the hospital, which has one purpose: to give adequate health facilities to meet the needs the community demands."

Charges Reduced At Hearing

CHARGES of assault and battery against John Counterman, 22, of 58 Smith St., East Stroudsburg, were reduced to disorderly conduct at a hearing yesterday before Peace Justice Floyd W. Kellogg. Counterman paid a total of $30 in fine and costs on the latter charge.

Counterman was arrested by Stroudsburg Police Tuesday after an altercation involving him and a 13-year-old youth, a student at Stroud Union High School, in Buck's Soda Mart on W. Main St.

Police said last night testimony at the hearing indicated there had been no fight between the two and that the 13-year-old was hurt while the pair were "fooling around."

The boy was treated at Monroe County General Hospital for a cut under the chin which required five stitches.

Silage Clinic Planned

ANOTHER silage clinic for farmers in Southeastern Pennsylvania, patterned after a successful program of a year ago, will be held all day April 5 in the Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. auditorium, between Allentown and Bethlehem, County Agent Samuel D. Lewis announced yesterday.

The clinic will have the co-sponsorship of the Pennsylvania Grassland Council. The council president, Dr. John E. Baylor, extension forage crops specialist at the Pennsylvania State University, is working with the county agents in Lehigh and Northampton counties in developing a program for the clinic. Also assisting with the affair will be the host, PP&L.

At the first extension silage clinic in 1961 more than 100 farmers and other interested persons attended from a dozen Southeastern counties. It was held in Allentown, with County Agent Ellenberger in charge, and also with the Grassland Council's co-sponsorship.

He and County Agent Lewis have extended an invitation to farmers in Lehigh and Northampton and to all other interested persons in surrounding areas. Farmers from three neighboring counties across the Delaware River in New Jersey are being invited through their county agents.

A New Jersey silage authority, Claude Eby, Sussex professor emeritus, dairy department, Rutgers University, will be one of the speakers. Other speakers will be four specialists from Penn State University: Richard S. Adams, dairy; Fred A. Hughes, farm management; Lee H. Snyder, agricultural engineering and Baylor.

Mathematics Teachers To Hold Contest

MONROE County Council of Teachers of Mathematics met at the East Stroudsburg Junior-Senior High School Faculty Room recently with Jerrold E. Fritz presiding. Plans for the mathematics contest to be held May 2 at the East Stroudsburg Junior-Senior High School Cafeteria were formulated. A deadline of April 11 was established for registration of all contestants with the registration committee chairman, Ronald Davis of the Pocono Mountain Joint School District.

Individual test responsibilities were delegated and a brief discussion was held as to the various topics that will be included in the different tests.

The divisions will be as in other years, 7th grade, 8th grade, General Mathematics, Algebra I, Algebra II, Plane Geometry, and Comprehensive Mathematics. The Pocono Mission School will be invited to attend this year as a new school in the area. The group also decided to seek the cooperation of the Daily Record in publicizing a sample test problem each day for two weeks prior to the mathematics contest. The next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday, April 10, in the East Stroudsburg Junior-Senior High School Faculty Room.

The auto dealer put the horse on display in his showroom with a price tag of $285. George Assenza, the salesman who handled the transaction, said the company considered it a fair deal.

The 4 that goes around acting like a V-8...Tempest!

Used to be that people swore by V-8's and V-8's alone. And then along came Tempest's spunky 4 to steal their thunder. The hottest version* of this 4 (166 hp) puts out more horsepower than any other production 4 in the world. More torque, too. And every version, standard 110 hp on up, is smooth and silent and effortless. About the only thing Tempest doesn't share with the big boys is its appetite for gasoline and spare parts. Isaac Carmel

Zionist Leader To Speak Here

FRIDAY night at 8 p.m. Sabbath services will be held at Temple Israel, East Stroudsburg. Rabbi Bernhard Presler will conduct the services and Isaac Carmel will be the guest speaker.

Carmel is one of the Old Guard of Zionists, who has been conspicuous in almost every phase of the Zionist movement from its inception under Theodore Herzl. Most notable perhaps were his efforts in the foundation of the Keren Hayesod, the branch of the Zionist movement which first translated theory into action and began the actual building of a Jewish state.

He has served also actively in the general strengthening of the Zionist movement through the Zionist organization. He was always a notable figure at all the Zionist conventions and one sure to be heard from in the crises and controversies which from time to time confronted that organization.

Carmel has also been active in Jewish National Fund work. For a time he served in an important capacity with the B'nai Zion fraternal organization. His activities in behalf of Zionism cover so many phases as to challenge cataloging. He was instrumental in bringing Pierre Van Paasen and others like him to the foreground of the movement.

Carmel has been described as a walking encyclopedia of the Zionist movement. He is one of the few surviving Zionists who was privileged to look on the founder of the movement in person. He was a boy in England when Herzl visited there and laid the foundation for the activity which was to culminate first in the British offer of Uganda and later in the promulgation of the Balfour Declaration. He was engaged in the initial launching of the Israel Bond Drive, then he resigned because of his wish to settle in Israel.

Currently, he is directing the compilation of a book, "American in Israel", detailing the story of the American contribution to the rebirth in Israel, the story to be told with a fullness which Mr. Carmel believes will make it a lasting memorial to the American contribution.

Completely unassuming, supplied with a stock of humor and anecdote, which seem to flow in an uninterrupted stream, he is always a welcome speaker.

The State of Israel Bond Issue is the central source of investment capital of Israel's historic program of economic development. Proceeds derived through the sale of Israel Bonds are making possible the building of permanent homes, the growth of industry and agriculture, the expansion of irrigation, the construction of roads, harbors and railways, the increase of electric power, and the exploitation of natural resources.

At the conclusion of the services, the Birthday children will be honored and the Congregation is invited to a reception in the vestry room.

Saturday morning services will be held at 7:30 a.m. followed by the Bar Mitzva and Confirmation Classes.

Local Elks To Meet Tonight

THE regular semi-monthly meeting of B.P.O. Elks 319, East Stroudsburg, will be held tonight beginning at 8.

Secretary John R. Hauser reminds all members that Saturday night, March 31, has been designated as "Sam Zaccaro Night" in honor of the Exalted Ruler of the Lodge.

This will be the last affair to be sponsored under the present administration.

Elks and their ladies are requested to make reservations for the party early.

Romania Follows

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Taking a leaf from the Soviet book, Romania is going to discuss its agricultural problems.

Radio Bucharest announced yesterday the Communist party Central Committee has been called to meet early in April to study measures relating to the reorganization of leadership in agriculture in accordance with its new phase of development as well as measures to supply specialists.

President Of Italy To Present Award

Daily Record Social Editor To Fly To Italy For High Honors

By Daily Record Staff Reporter

MRS. Roberta Westbrook, family page editor of The Daily Record, will fly to Italy next Wednesday to accept second prize in the "Rustichello da Pisa" journalistic contest conducted by the Tourist Provincial Agency of Pisa.

Mrs. Westbrook will receive her award from Giovanni Gronchi, president of the Republic of Italy. The award is one of three given annually to "foreign" writers for articles on Italy.

Mrs. Westbrook spent the summer of 1960 in Italy and the award she will receive on Saturday, March 24, is based on a column, "Just Between Us" which appears regularly in The Daily Record and which was based, at that time, on her visit to Italy.

The award will be presented at ceremonies at the University for Studies, the major university of Pisa. Mrs. Westbrook will be a guest at the Hotel Duomo on the Via Santa Maria during her stay in Pisa.

Seven On Jury

The jury which selected Mrs. Westbrook's column for the award consisted of four prominent Italians and the president and two vice presidents of the Rome Assn. of Foreign Journalists.

The Italian members of the panel were Leonard Azzarita, managing counsellor of the National Federation of the Italian Press, who served as chairman; a representative of the Ministry of Tourism and Entertainment; Benso Fini, Leone Piccioni and Giovanni Spadolini, journalists recommended by the National Federation of the Press; Umberto Fedi, representative of the Union of the Italian Tourist Press; Dr. Nicola Della Santa, representative of the Tuscan Press Assn. and the president and director of the Pisa Ente per il Turismo.

The president of the Rome Assn. of Foreign Journalists is Barrett McGurn, Rome correspondent for the New York Herald-Tribune. The other judges for the foreign entries were Kurt Klinger, head of the German News Agency, and Max Bergerre, head of the French News Agency.

Mrs. Westbrook's column won in competition with articles published in Montevideo, Baltimore, Granada, North Hollywood, Sao Paulo, Lisbon, Madrid, Barcelona, Brussels and Valencia.

Decision Close

The award for second prize was decided between Mrs. Westbrook's column and an article written by Lee McArdle of the Baltimore Sun. After the judging, McGurn was quoted as saying he argued for the McArdle article on the basis that a published story by an eminent journalist in a large eastern newspaper was more important from the standpoint of the interests of Pisa.

Klinger and Bergerre held out for Mrs. Westbrook's column on the basis of its being uniquely imaginative, informal and appealing, especially since it dealt mostly with people and personal impressions.

The competition was for articles published between June 1 and Dec. 1, 1960, illustrating the historical, artistic or tourist aspects of the city and province of Pisa and Tuscan published in foreign dailies, weeklies and other periodicals, or submitted by their authors, or selected by the jury.

Mystery On Entry

The mystery of how Mrs. Westbrook's column was entered in the contest remains unsolved since it was not submitted by the author or any other known source.

The second prize, consisting of 22 gold pounds sterling, will go to Mrs. Westbrook and Andres Travera, Spanish journalist, while the first prize of 40 gold pounds sterling, will be awarded to Joseph Coolsaet, Belgian journalist.

The seventh "Premio da Pisa" is one of the journalistic prizes which a number of Italian provinces award each year in an effort to stimulate and recognize writings on Italy which will increase awareness of attractions in the area and thus tourism.

Successful

A U. S. embassy source has informed Mrs. Westbrook that the Pisa competition is one of the most successful series. President Gronchi was invited to present the awards because he is from Pisa and maintains an active interest in the area.

Confirmation of the date of the award and the presence of President Gronchi at the ceremony was received in a telegram to Mrs. Westbrook on Tuesday from U.S. Ambassador to Italy Reinhardt.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Pisa. It's too bad, in a way, that the Leaning Tower of Pisa does. The trouble is that the tourists it attracts pile out by the busloads, take pictures of each other leaning with the tower and then take off without ever noticing the rest of the enchanting town, probably the purest Romanesque of all Italy.

I can afford to be snug about how much more I saw of the town but only because as a civilian, I couldn't accompany the rest of the family to the PX at Livorno and had six hours to spend by myself with no car and the shops all closed for the rest hours.

During that period, Pisa and I got acquainted, and we were definitely simpatico. Guidebook in hand, I ventured forth into deserted streets, feeling as if I should walk on tiptoe so as not to wake the ghosts.

Noon-day is a strange time for ghosts to walk but from behind me came the sound of hoof beats, and a song—They echoed in the silence that had held the Piazza del Cavalieri, named for the Knights of Stephen organized as a defense against Mediterranean pirates. The Cavalier on his fountain seemed to stir on his pedestal, the sleeping pigeons took flight and I held my breath until a very substantial black and red carriage clattered through the square and drove off through a medieval gateway.

I followed it to the Leaning Tower, which really is a part of the whole group of buildings in the Square of the Miracles—and a miracle of architecture, they are, too, but so crowded with tourists that everybody had to hold in their stomachs to pass on the circular stairway up the tower and got their heels tramped on.

But a block away, at the ruins of Nero's Bath, I had the city to myself again until the parks and streets started to come alive with robed citizens and I rejoined the shoppers for coffee along the Arno to watch it turn pink in the sunset, matching the pink houses on either side.

After one of those wonderful Italian dinners with so much service that you felt like royalty, we wandered into a small cafe where the men were playing cards while their wives exchanged neighborhood news—and all of them showing off like children for the "tourists."

On the way home, every light in the city suddenly went off and we were left in the pitch darkness. There are many cities in which that would be a frightening thing—but somehow in Italy, where crimes of violence are practically non-existent, it was merely exciting.

Candles bloomed on sidewalk cafes. Strangers held matches for us to cross streets. Once your eyes grew used to the dark, the old houses took shape and the illusion of having stepped back into another century grew even stronger.

It was a memorable day and she was dreamlike because Pisa is probably the last Italian town which I shall be able to make my own since ahead of me are the hectic days of the early Olympics and then home. Wherever, has this long, lovely Summer gone?

THIS IS the column for which Bobby Westbrook gained world-wide recognition. She won second prize in the Italian contest which pitted her work against top writers throughout all nations. She bested columnists in all of the metropolitan top dailies in the United States.

Police Still Use Buffalo Skins

WINNIP (AP) — Chief Constable Robert Taft has asked the Winnipeg Finance Committee to approve the purchase of 20 new buffalo skin coats for his force. He said other coats had been tried, but nothing had been found to replace the brown, furry robe for an officer standing on a corner in 30-below weather.

Girl, 7, Slightly Hurt In Dart In Front Of Car

A SEVEN-YEAR-OLD girl was slightly injured when struck by a car on N. First St., Stroudsburg, at 4:33 p.m. yesterday.

Borough police said Beverly H. Rarick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rarick, 105 N. First St., darted between two cars into the path of a vehicle driven by James H. Bishop, 24, of 16 Rose St., East Stroudsburg.

The child suffered a cut right knee as she was bumped to the pavement by the slow-moving vehicle. She was X-rayed at Monroe County General Hospital and discharged.

Police said a woman identified as Florence Smith, 560 Roosevelt St., East Stroudsburg, an employee of Vassar Import Bag Co., N. First St., saw the car approaching and took the child's hand, but the youngster broke from her grasp and ran into the path of the car.

Employers Urged To Comply

EMPLOYERS liable for income tax withheld and social security taxes in excess of $100 for the month of February must deposit such taxes with a depository, District Director R. P. Brownell, of the Internal Revenue Service in Scranton reported yesterday.

Stressing the importance of compliance with deposit deadline of March 15, 1962, Mr. Brownell added that Form 450 should be used for this purpose. Deposits may be made in local authorized banks or Federal Reserve Banks, he stated.

Employers who do not have a copy of Circular E, "Employers Tax Guide" may obtain it from any local IRS office. This publication contains a full discussion of employment taxes, together with tables and percentage methods for computing such taxes.

Boy, 7, Plays In SW Senior Band

John David Strupcewski

Two Hurt In Italian Blast

SAINT-RHEMY, Italy (AP) — A premature rock blast in the nearly completed Grand St. Bernard Tunnel here yesterday injured two Italian workers.

Completion of the 3.7-mile tunnel under Great St. Bernard Mountain to link Italy and Switzerland with an all-weather motor road is scheduled for April 5. It will be opened to traffic early next year.

NEWFOUNDLAND — Probably the only young man to play with the senior band at Southern Wayne Joint School before he had even entered the first grade, John David Strupcewski, now a ripe old seven years of age, is a talented musician who is equally at home with trumpet, drums, vocals and dance steps.

John David was introduced to the senior band during the Summer concert series when he was five years of age, just before he began school. He has been a regular member of the band since that time, performing creditably with the drum section, even though he was so small that he couldn't be seen behind the big instrument.

Since that time, he has grown to a height of a little more than three feet, and has branched out into playing the trumpet, singing in a miniature "Fats Domino" style, and dancing in revues. He has played the drums since he was three years of age, and this year joined his brother's jazz band as the man with the beat.

John David comes by his talent quite naturally. His father, John, is music supervisor at SWJS, and has toured with the Billy Jones Band. He has also played with Charlie Masters, a leading Scranton dance band. He plays all instruments, but his specialty is the trombone.

Dancer, Singer — Mrs. Strupcewski sang with Billy Jones and is a dancer as well.

Both the elder Strupcewski and his older son, Bob, play with the Scranton Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, and this year Bob, who is a senior at SWJS, organized his own jazz band. Bob plays drums, piano and trombone.

All of which shows that John David is a member of a most musical family, and his ambition is to continue study of music after high school. He is presently preparing to audition for the Ted Mack program.

Saturday night, at Honesdale High School, both John David, as winner of the Southern Wayne Talent Show, and Bob and his band, who will appear by special invitation, will participate in the Wayne County Talent Show. Arrangements have been made to transport a busload of Newfoundland area residents to see the show.

Delaware Water Gap N. E. BURL. GR 6-0053

MRS. Simeon Mosier, of Cherry Valley Street, had her birthday honored recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Sommers. Mr. and Mrs. Orien Lambert of Pittston were present also. Mrs. Mosier's sister, Mrs. Alma Siebold of Easton, ice cream, cake and gifts made a festive time for the 78-year-old lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Orien Lambert will be returning to their home in Water Gap on April 15 after spending the winter in Pittston. They plan to sell their Cherry Valley home in the fall and make their home permanently in Pittston.

Ten girls of Troop 330 attended the worship service in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, to mark Girl Scout Week. They were Carol Wilson, Dona Lehr, Yona Geshensky, Nancy Richards, Donna Widdoss, Doris Widdoss, Carol Reisenwitz and Phyllis Jennings. Joan Smith, Roxanne Kaiser. They were in charge of Mrs. Stephen Matos and Mrs. R. Widdoss.

The day before they met in the afternoon at the Stroudsburg High School gymnasium for a rally. Cecilia Lundergan joined the group. Mrs. Matos and Mrs. Widdoss accompanied them. They had had their regular meeting Tuesday night March 6 to plan for the rally and to work on "pencils for peace" so that they might help children all over the world receive pencils. The girl scouts were impressed by the statement that many children had never seen a pencil.

Brownies who attended church service, under leadership of Mrs. Robert Richards and Mrs. Willard Jennings, were Bonita Smolak, Sandra Jennings, Gracyna Bush, Peggy Smith, Patricia Martin, and Kathy Baechtold.

Dr. Emmons To Speak At E-Burg Fete

UNDER the auspices of the Methodist Men's Fellowship of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, a fathers' and Sons' Banquet will be held Monday night, March 19 at 6:30 p.m. in the church dining room.

Dr. Peter Emmons will speak on the theme "Father, Son and Company".

Dr. Emmons is a man of profound commitment to the Christian ministry. He is a world leader in the church, from which he has retired as an active pastor, but in which he is still greatly sought after, both for his acquaintance with his world-wide mission in the church and for his great ability as a speaker.

Until recently he was pastor of the largest Presbyterian Church in the city of Scranton, and while there, was elected to the presidency of the commission of world missions of the Presbyterian Church.

In this connection, he became a world traveler. He will be remembered by hundreds of residents of this area as having served as pastor of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

A roast beef dinner will be served to those who attend the banquet. A party hour is planned for the sons under seven years of age, during the program, following the dinner.

Tickets may be secured at the church office.

Metropolitan Soprano Offers Interesting Program

By George L. Meyer

MISS Heidi Krall, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, presented an interesting program of song literature to a warm and enthusiastic audience at the Pocono Community Concert Association's third concert of the season Monday night in the E.S.S.C. auditorium.

Miss Krall classifies her voice as lirico spinto; that is possessing the beauty of the lyric soprano, but also having qualities of the more powerful dramatic soprano. While not the very finest voice we have heard, it certainly was an instrument of beauty, power, and good control. Her program showed exceedingly good taste as it smoothly progressed from the famous Jewel Song from "Faust" by Gounod, in French, to the German man lieder of Schubert, Brahms, and R. Strauss, to the Italian of Puccini. (Musetta's waltz from "La Bohème" and an bel di, from "Madame Butterfly.") We were happy to hear art songs by two contemporary American composers, Charles Griffes, and Samuel Barber included on the program. These, and the folk song, "He's Gone Away," were the only numbers sung in English.

Audience Most Receptive

Despite the language barrier, Miss Krall's audience was most receptive — a real tribute to her artistry. Resplendent in green satin, the artist captivated us completely with the Puccini arias.

Mr. Richard Tetley-Kardos was Miss Krall's accompanist. He was unobtrusively correct, as a good accompanist should be, and gave excellent musical support to the singer. His virtuosity was displayed in his solo, "Fireworks," by Debussy, and his rendering of a Chopin "Nocturne." However, his score of the Chopin "Waltz," either disagrees with ours, or he improvised in the middle section of this number.

The program was most enjoyable, and well-worth attending. The next in the series on May 10, will feature Tipton's "Music for Tonight."

Saves Rail Time

NANCY, France (AP)—Government engineers have drawn up plans for a huge water-filled receptacle in which boats could be transported by rail from the Marne to the Rhine rivers. The rail trip would take 52 minutes compared to eight hours now required for the boats to pass through 22 locks.

Just Between Us —

There are certain advantages in growing old in harness. Last night when John Gish responded to the citation presented to him at the Hospital's Tribute Dinner was reminiscing about those who had helped in the early years, it was pleasant to be able to recall them all so vividly:

Sally Booth and Luther Hoffman and all the rest whose very names recall their enthusiasm, their activities and the struggle to keep up with them in the news. To which list I should also add Ora Levering.

In these days when things cost millions, it was amusing to note that the first hospital paid $20 a month rent, and that in 1921, the trustees ended up with a total balance of 17 cents.

Mr. Gish also managed to turn the tables on Frank La-Bar, no mean feat indeed, when he recalled that the first major crisis facing the hospital when it moved to Brown St. was the matter of sewage and that it was Frank who "made the right connections" with the college sewage plant.

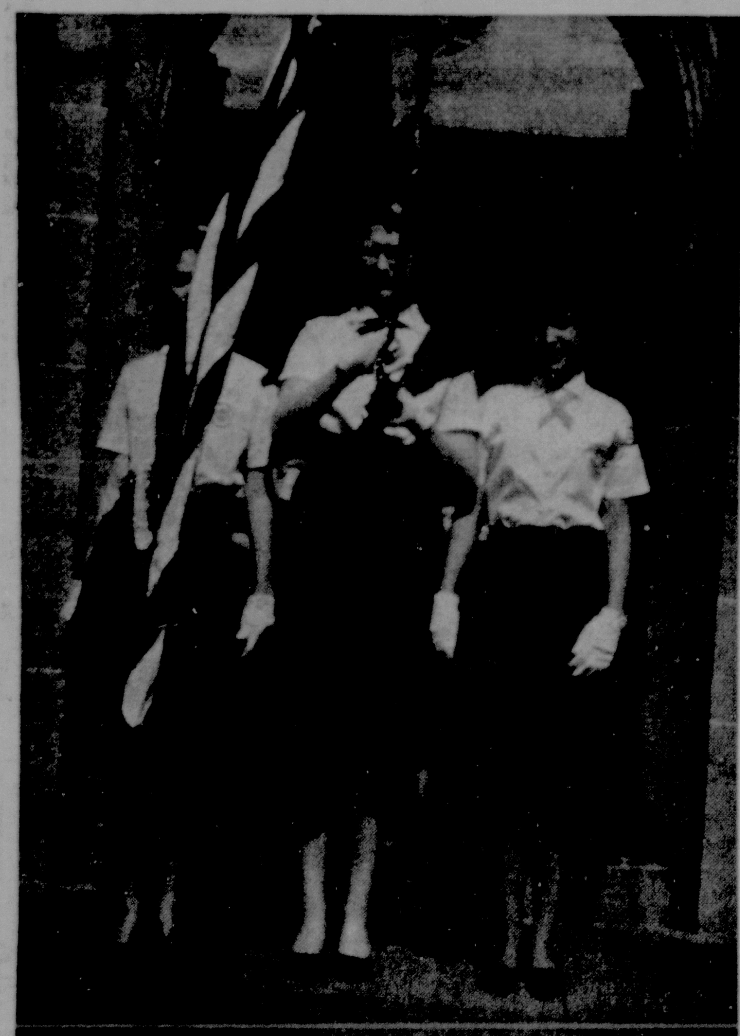

It is with admiration we recall those giants of the past who seem to loom larger than life in view of their accomplishments. But it is also encouraging to see their burdens being taken up by younger men whose stature will loom just as large to future generations.

The rising tribute to Arlie Williams was a moving thing because you knew that all those present realize that Arlie, of all men, is one who really does practice what he preaches.

Jere Stofflet, hospital board president, didn't deliberately go out of his way to prove we need a bigger hospital, but it was ironical that he should miss the meeting because he is sick—not hospital-sick, but plenty miserable.

Ironie Note In Russian Film Here

Reviewed by Joan Patterson

The first showing at the college auditorium of the Spring series of the World Films Committee, Alexander Nevsky, was a robust melodrama in the Cecil B. DeMille tradition, Russian style.

Alexander Nevsky is a Russian film made in 1938. Directed by Sergei Eisenstein, the film features original music by Sergei Prokofiev.

The film relates the story of the powerful Order of the Teutonic Knights who, in 1242, swept across the Baltic Provinces in late March of that year. They were met by the free city-state of Novgorod under their Prince Alexander Nevsky. In early April at Lake Peipus the fierce and decisive Battle of the Ice was fought. The Germans were fully humbled and driven from the country, abandoning their earlier gains.

Dominated by a stirring battle scene, which evoked memories of the late Cecil B. DeMille, the film was an extravaganza of historical pageantry. A romantic sub-plot involving a worthy maiden and two ardent suitors for her hand threaded through the great preparations for the battle and its aftermath. The main scenes centered on the brutal battle between the Russian peasants so faithful to their Motherland and the invading Germans. Splendid horses, weapons of medieval warfare and spirited war music added to a most entertaining and historically realistic film.

In addition Alexander Nevsky was seasoned with generous amounts of anti-German propaganda. The film was almost certainly made with an eye to the political realities of 1938 on the Russian scene.

Prince Alexander's final words in the film were ironic in the light of current world conditions. He said, apostrophizing the fleeing Germans, "Go tell the people in your country they will be welcome to come to Russia as guests. But if they come with swords, they should plan to die by the sword."

A delightful short, "The Emperor's New Clothes," a marionette-east fairy tale, preceded the main feature.

Dear Abby

Her Teeth On Edge!

Dear Abby: How can I get my mother to ADMIT that her dentures are no good and to DO something about them? When she talks, she makes clicking sounds that cause people to giggle. When I ring her bell, I can see her through her large picture window running first to get her teeth, so I know she doesn't put them in her mouth unless she has to. Her dental bill was not cheap (I paid it) and I can't understand why she refuses to go back to her dentist and complain. Can you help me?

HER DAUGHTER

Dear Abby: I am a girl who "had to" get married. Not for the usual reason, but my story might be worth space in your column to keep other girls from making the same mistake. I "had to" get married because at 22 I graduated from college and, believe it or not, I wasn't trained for any special job. I couldn't see going home to live with my parents as a "child" again, but the main reason was that all my friends were married. So I married a nice, dull, average man who had had a crush on me since high school. He has no big faults, but he is the world's worst bore. He is selfish and inconsiderate and some of his personal habits are revolting. He never argues. Just sulks. His big interest is sports. Two weeks after the wedding I knew it was a mistake. My religion doesn't permit divorce, so I am stuck. I hope no other girl "has to" get married for the foolish reasons I did.

STUCK

Dear Abby: Four months ago we adopted a beautiful baby girl. We never dreamed people would ask us the questions we have been asked about this baby. Such as, "Where did you get her?" "Do you know who her parents were?" "Was her mother unmarried?" How can people have such nerve to ask questions like that? Please tell us what to say.

NEEDING ADVICE

Dear Abby: You are under no compulsion to answer every question you are asked, you know. Tell them that their questions are too personal, and change the subject.

Confidential to "Hate Myself": Report the physician to your county medical society, and do not see him again professionally or otherwise. Tell your husband you wish to change doctors, but don't go into detail.

Still worrying about the same old problem? Write to Abby for a personal reply. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Planet Venus working up to favorably strong aspect, so you work up to strategic efforts for position, advantages. Tackle what you think your talents can master. Space tasks, practically.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Alternating influences. Be definite where you should be, ease up where such is required for better cooperation. Don't give in to more domination or malevolent dictates. THINK!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—One of your best months! Good luck, active month. Calls for work, forethought and completeness on your part for sure success. And your inborn ease of manner with deference to others know-how.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Must represent the finest you can call up in yourself and in others about you. Your resolution and vigor will garner top benefits for you, now and later. Composure, tact, and craft, nursing newly honored.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Seek counsel, if that is indicated; be well-disposed to this day from the start and you will be away ahead of ordinary gains. Scholarly, tactful, writing, art, stagecraft, nursing newly honored.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Aim for your normal clear, correct judgment, unhampered by surrounding bias and prejudice. Think, thinking over from the beginning of a matter, where could there be flaws? Close up loopholes.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius)—Mildly suspicious. Just say, "I'm not sure." Ask questions of intelligent heads. Then put all together, using ably own intuition and initiative.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn)—Observe others' methods, what instructions are hinted as best for your work and interests? Consider all angles, and don't act because you may be pressured. This way you'll have to re-do realign.

January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius)—May cost a bit, but a let-down attitude can move us into poor position for attainment. This often loses precious time, even prestige. Be alert, relax, but don't drift aimlessly.

Eagles Whip Jacks Behind Jurgensen

Jacks Lose 7-Point Lead Late In Tilt

THE Philadelphia Eagles scored a 70-67 victory over the previously unbeaten Pocono last night in an exhibition basketball game at East Stroudsburg State College.

The Birds won in the final 15 seconds on a foul shot by quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and a tap in by half-back Tim Brown.

Jurgensen ended with 25 points, mostly on long jump shots, for game high honors.

PIAA Tickets May Be Phony

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Offices of two district attorneys were reported probing Wednesday the use of counterfeit admission tickets for last night's PIAA District 3 York-Carlisle championship basketball game.

State police also were looking into a fracas which climaxed the contest in which a Carlisle fan was struck by an unidentified fan as the teams left the floor of Hershey Arena. A young girl from Carlisle was injured when a crowd milled about a bus. Carlisle won the game 48-45.

James Neely of Lancaster, secretary-treasurer of District 3 (mid-state area), said he had asked Lancaster District Atty. Alfred Alsop to look into reported use of the bogus tickets.

Yanks, Dodgers Las Vegas Choice

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The New York Yankees are 1-2 favorites of Las Vegas oddsmakers to repeat as American League champions.

And the Los Angeles Dodgers at 9-5 are picked in the National League to face the Bronx Bombers in the World Series, oddsmaker Jimmy Snyder said Wednesday.

The Jacks' Tony Salerno had 23 points. Russ Hopewell had 15 points for the Jacks.

Brown and Bob Pellegrini each had 10 points for the Eagles, who have lost only five times in the past two years. Dick Lucas and Billy Barnes had eight points each.

In the preliminary game, the Varsity "E" Club topped the Varsity "S" Club, 44-41, behind Jim Kindrew's 19 points. Henry Stetler had 16 points and Bill Metzger 15 for the losers.

Sassaman Wins
Delaware Valley High's Tom Sassaman won the foul shooting contest, with Geoff Rader, of Pen Argyl second. Rader won the second place trophy in a sudden death shoot-off with Jim Fritz of Pleasant Valley.

The feature game was close for most of the way and with 30 seconds left, the score was tied 67-67. Jurgensen put the Eagles ahead on a foul shot and with 10 seconds left, Brown tapped in a rebound. Seconds later Brown stole a toss in by the Jacks to seal the win.

In the last four minutes, the Jacks blew a seven-point lead, with Jurgensen and Brown responsible for most of the Eagles' lead-cutting scoring.

Jacks Trail
The Jacks trailed 19-16 at the end of the first period but held a 30-28 halftime margin. The Jacks were still ahead by two after three periods but in the final frame, the Eagles pushed in 24 points, while the Jacks managed only 19.

The game was played under modified "Eagles" rules. The three-second rule, which applies to a player standing in the free throw lane, was waived. The foul rule was liberalized to allow anything short of flying tackles.

According to Engles' coach Fred Schubach, Tommy McDonnell got lost en route to the game.

SU's Loney Picked For League Team

FOR the third straight year, a Stroud Union High School basketball player has been named to the first team of the Lehigh Valley League all-star basketball squad.

Warren Loney, Jr. earned the honor for the Mountaineers this season.

He was joined on the first team by Larry Miller, and Jim Murtagh, Catasauqua; Charlie Wogenrich, Northampton and Billy Heydt, Palmerton.

Loney was among the top five in scoring in the eight team league, although the Mounties finished in last place. He has been a starter for two years for coach Bob Wert.

Regains Touch
Loney was in the race for individual scoring honors until he hit a mid-season slump. He regained his scoring touch in the final games of the season, to move into the top five scorers.

Loney also participates in football and baseball at Stroud Union and was selected as the school's Scholar-Athlete by the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the National Football Foundation.

The league coaches selected the all-star team. Coaches were not allowed to vote for their own players. Loney was picked on four first team ballots and three second teams.

Last year Stroud Union's Mike McMahon was named to the first team and the season before it was Todd Williams. Todd's brother, Ted, was picked on the team in 1957.

Buffalo Coach May Be Fired Claims Editor

DENVER (AP)—The Denver Post said Wednesday the University of Colorado Board of Regents are considering firing the school's football coach, Sonny Grandelius.

The newspaper said a university faculty athletic committee has investigated charges—still undisclosed—which were brought against the University of Colorado by the National Collegiate Athletic Association "and found enough serious infractions of NCAA rules to prompt most of the regents to want to clean the athletic house."

The story was written by sports editor Harry Farrar, attributed the reports to a reliable source. Grandelius, who has been coach since 1959, could not be reached for comment immediately.

The regents may hold a special meeting with President Quigg Newton of the university later this week, the Post reported.

The University of Colorado won the Big Eight Conference football championship last fall and lost to Louisiana State University in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.

President Newton, asked about the report, said "I can not confirm or deny it."

Grandelius was an assistant coach at Michigan State, where he had been a football star, when he took the Colorado job.

The University of Colorado sent a report from its own investigating committee to the NCAA council two weeks ago.

Yanks Remain Unbeaten

Chisox Show Old Form In Edging Milwaukee 4-3

Using their 1959 pennant formula, the Chicago White Sox came from behind with two rookies providing the impetus and defeated the Milwaukee Braves 4-3 Wednesday for their fourth exhibition baseball triumph in five games.

Outfield hopeful Mike Hersberger sparked the Sox' attack at Sarasota, Fla., with three hits, including a triple, and stole his third base while rookie shortstop Al Weis struck the big blow by knocking in the winner with a two-out single in the ninth.

The New York Yankees remained the only undefeated team, edging Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for a 5-0 record while Washington blasted Cincinnati 12-1 at Pompano Beach, Fla., and lowered the National League champion Reds' mark to 1-4.

Twins Lose
In other Florida games, the Los Angeles "A" team beat Minnesota 7-5 at Vero Beach, the Dodgers "B" team walloped the New York Mets 9-3 at St. Petersburg, St. Louis whipped Detroit 4-2 at Lakeland and Pittsburgh bopped

Philadelphia 8-3 at Clearwater.

In Arizona contests, the Chicago Cubs defeated Houston 6-3, San Francisco outslugged the Los Angeles Angels 14-11 and Cleveland nipped Boston 7-6.

A two-out homer in the 11th by reserve Jack Reed gave the Yanks their win over the A's, who got solid one-hit pitching from Krause for three innings. Carl Bouldin hurled three perfect innings for the Senators, winners over the Reds on home runs by Bob Johnson, Bob Schmidt and Chuck Cottier.

A three-run triple by Willie Davis, Tommy Davis' bases-empty homer and a two-run single by Larry Burright carried the Dodgers "A" squad to their win over the twins. The "B" team beat the Mets with Duke Snider going 4-for-4 and Ken McMullen hitting a two-run homer.

White Homers
Bill White's two-run homer and Ray Washburn's five innings of one-hit hurling paced the Cards to their conquest of the Tigers.

Ernie Banks went 2-for-5 and George Altman 3-for-5 as the Cubs beat the Colts with Don Cardwell, Dick Ellsworth and Bob Anderson scattering nine hits. The Giants pounded Angels pitching for 21 hits, including homers by Ed Bailey and rookie infielder Dick Piny.

Jerry Kindall's homer in the 10th gave the Indians the run they needed to whip the Red Sox.

Canada Pair Win Figure Skate Title

PRAGUE (AP)—Maria and Otto Jelinek of Canada captured the pairs crown of the 1962 World Figure Skating Championship Wednesday night in the last performance of their amateur career.

The Prague-born couple said they were retiring from amateur competition.

Second place went to Ludmilla Belousova and Oleg Protopopov of the Soviet Union followed by Margarete Goebel and Franz Ningel of West Germany.

Majority Of Firsts
The Jelineks, whose family fled Communist Czechoslovakia in 1948, and the Russians tied in total points with 102.2 each. The Jelineks, however, gained a majority of five first-place votes. The Russians had three and Miss Goebel and Ningel got the others.

The American teams, Dorothy Ann Nelson and Pieter Kollen of Lake Placid, N.Y., and Judianne and Jerry Fotheringell of Tacoma, Wash., were eighth and tenth, respectively.

Just Beats Deadline

Patterson To Sign Friday For Bout Against Liston

By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson will sign Friday for a defense of his world heavyweight title against Sonny Liston.

Promoter Tom Bolan of Championship Sports Inc., said Patterson's attorney, Julius November, had informed him that the champion would sign Friday afternoon, probably in New York.

Last Defense
Patterson's last title defense against an approved challenger was his knockout of Ingemar Johansson on March 13, 1961. He destroyed Tom McNeely in four rounds last Dec. 4, but the fight was not approved by the NBA.

Site and date of the Patterson-Liston fight has not been announced, although it is widely rumored to be set for New York in June or late July.

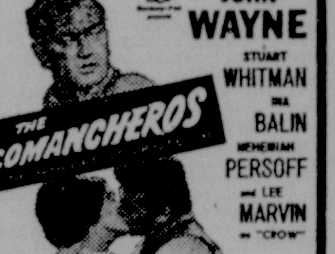

Paul Sullivan, chairman of the NBA World championships committee, said in Pittsburgh the poll would be dropped.

He has been in hot pursuit of the fight for more than a year. Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, first opposed the fight on the twin grounds of Liston's unsavory police record and his reported managerial connections with gangsters.

St. Anselm was scheduled to play Uniontown St. Johns Wednesday night for the western title. The game was to be played anywhere as an exhibition contest.

Uniontown then was scheduled to play St. Michaels of Greenville for the title on Friday. However, the status of that game was still undecided pending decision on whether the Pittsburgh Diocese would floor a team to replace St. Anselm.

Dodgers May Lose Leading Bird Dog

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Of the old Dodgers who deserted Brooklyn for Los Angeles back in 1957, the officials now outnumber the athletes.

But, by the end of the coming season, the Dodgers may lose one of their most valuable front office men.

He is Al Campanis, a Dodger for more than 20 years, who recently has done wonders scouring Latin America for players and signing them, too.

Ever since 1953, when the Cincinnati Reds made him a $12,500 offer as a coach and fielding instructor, Campanis has been blessed with chances.

Bob Carpenter of the Phillies sought him, as assistant general manager; Birdie Tebbets, failing to land him in Cincinnati, sought him for Milwaukee; he had a chance to become a Yankee; and now there's a new team in the picture.

This unnamed team may approach Campanis long before next winter's meetings in Rochester, N.Y.

Changed Mind
"I tried to leave the Dodgers before," Campanis says. "Each time it meant more money. And each time I changed my mind at the last moment."

"I've never regretted those decisions. At 45 I'm director of scouting. I've been an organization man since I got out of New York University in 1940.

"About the only jobs I'd consider with another club would be general manager or director of personnel. I am one of three men being considered for such a post for 1963. I can't tell you the club."

Campanis used to spend more time in Latin countries than in his former home at New Hyde Park, N. Y. It was he who decided that you no longer can get a Chico Fernandez for $500 or a Sandy Amoroso for $1,000.

Fernandez and Amoroso were two of the many bargains Campanis picked up on his Caribbean cruises. Now the competition is too tough, even for a scout with a winning club and a good command of Spanish.

Campanis' own playing career ended in 1947 when he was spiked as a Montreal second baseman. Then in 1948 he turned to managing. His third basemen-shortstop at Nashua, N.H., was Don Hoak, now Pittsburgh third baseman. In fact, Campanis might have saved ex-pugilist Hoak's career.

Slapped Face
"I had to slap him in the face to keep him from hitting an umpire," recalls Campanis. "I was coaching at third and Hoak got into an argument with this ump. I jumped up and in trying to clamp my arms around Hoak, I slapped his face just as he was about to land a haymaker. He could have been suspended for life. 'Go in and get dressed,' I told him. 'You're out of the game.' Also saved him a fine."

When the Reds wanted Campanis in 1953 they got Dodger permission to talk to him at Atlanta's winter meetings. They paid his expenses to fly from Havana. Al was making only $8,000 a year then, but he turned down the Reds.

In 1957 Lee MacPhail, then with the Yankees, told Campanis the head scouting job held by the late Paul Krichel was his if he wished. He could have gotten $15,000, plus unlimited expenses. He turned that down, too.

Phillie owner Bob Carpenter will always remember Campanis even though Al turned down his $18,000 offer for three years. Campanis took a train from New York to Philadelphia just to tell Carpenter he appreciated his offer but that he couldn't leave the Dodgers.

Birdie Tebbets last winter tried to get Camp for Milwaukee.

Say Champ Will Sign On Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — The promoter of the title bout between world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston said today Patterson would sign for the bout on Friday afternoon.

Promoter Tom Bolan of Championship Sports Inc., said Patterson's attorney, Julius November, had informed him of the signing.

Bolan said it probably would take place in New York, at 1:30 p.m.

Bolan said he was not yet certain of the site and date for the bout. It has been rumored that it will be held in New York in June.

why?

If you were a professional used truck buyer, why would you pay more for one make than another?

There may be several reasons, but among them would be:

1. A greater demand for the product
2. A more desirable product for resale

So if used Chevrolet trucks consistently bring higher prices at auctions all over the country, it means that their quality features pay off for you not only as long as you own them but also when you are ready to trade them—double-wall cabs, doors and side panels, roof insulation, select wood floors, reliable and economical engines, real rugged tailgates, a suspension system that helps prolong truck life.

See your Chevrolet dealer for a quality '62 Chevrolet Jobmaster truck.

Green Thumb

Zinnias And Other Plants

By George Abram
ZINNIA AGAIN: Recently we talked about disease-resistance among zinnias and mentioned a few types which show immunity to Alternaria blight, the villain which has been taking the fun out of growing this handsome annual. Our article caught the eye of one of the country's leading seed firms. This firm has given me permission to offer each reader of this newspaper, a free packet of 75 seeds of State Fair Zinnia, for your own garden. These zinnia plants are husky, and resist Alternaria disease to a high degree.

If you'd like a free packet, send me your name and address on a postal card, and we'll see that you get your seeds. Allow 2 to 3 weeks for the seed. This offer will never be repeated, so if you want a free packet of zinnia seeds (12 dozen) write to me today.

PATIENCE PLANTS: Also called Impatiens (im-pay-sheenz) or Sultana, this popular shade annual has increased in demand by over 125 percent in the past few years. This is one of those few annuals unequalled for shade or sun, producing an abundance of colorful blooms throughout the summer. They are not only ideal for bedding, but useful in flower boxes and pots.

I'm often asked what is the difference between Impatiens, sultana, balsam and Patience Plant, and I'll try to straighten this out for you.

First, let's be a bit technical and say these all belong to the "Balsam" family (Balsaminaceae). Now, Impatiens is the genus, and balsamina and sultana are species. They are all in the same family, but common names are confusing.

What is called "Balsam" is also called Lady slippers or Touch-me-not. This is an old favorite with double flowers along the stems among the leaves. The blossoms of the bush flowered balsam resemble camellias, coming in red, pink and white blooms.

The plant referred to as Impatiens, (Patience plant) or Sultana comes in a wide variety of colors, has single flowers ideal for the window in the winter, porch boxes in spring, and sunny or shady beds in summer. Impatiens sultani (or sultana) is an old favorite grandmother used as house plants.

None of above is finicky. Start them from seed, or cuttings rooted in water. If they get leggy, pinch the tip out and they'll be nice and bushy.

AIR OR LIFE PLANT: A reader was given a leaf of an "air plant" and asks for information on growing it. This item is known as Kalanchoe (Kal-an-koh-ee) pin-tina. If you pin a leaf to a curtain (out of direct sun) tiny plants will form along the edges. Then you place the leaf on pot of soil and the many plantlets will root.

Airplant likes a fairly warm room (60 to 70 degs.) a bright window, and well drained soil. Loss of lower leaves is a common complaint and is due to aging of the tissue or poor light.

FIREBLIGHT OF TULIPS: If your tulips blasted or turned brown last year, watch out! You may have the same trouble this year. Fireblight ("Tulip fire") or botrytis is the villain which causes buds to blast or turn brown, and the leaves to twist and die.

This trouble is due to a fungus which lives over in the soil (on bulbs) from year to year. It rides up from the bulb with the young shoot, and that means control should center around covering new growth.

Apply Ferbam, Captan or Zineb as soon as the plants show above the soil, and repeat at weekly intervals until flowers start to unfold. Rates: 4 teaspoons of ferbam or 2½ tablespoons of ferbam per gallon of water if you spray. Don't wait until the buds start to open to spray or dust. It'll be too late then.

CRACKED BARK: Recently I told how winter causes cracks in barks of trees, especially on the southwest side of the trunk. A reader passes along his idea for handling this. He painted the exposed area with linseed oil twice a year for 4 years and new growth completely healed over the wound.

SOIL FOR HOUSE PLANTS: A good all purpose mixture for just about all house plants (except azaleas) is sand, peat and loam. Don't go out in the garden and scoop up a batch for house plants or for starting seed. It won't work.

If you start seed in soil substitutes such as vermiculite, or perlite, be sure to water with a liquid plant food as these materials are sterile and need beefing up. You can grow most flowers and vegetables to transplanting size in these soil substitutes, but be sure to water with liquid plant food.

DRIED ARRANGEMENTS: If you're interested in growing flowers for use in dried arrangements, here are some good candidates: Bells of Ireland, Cockscomb, both plumed and crested, perennial baby's breath, Honesty, (silver dollars), strawflowers, Ko-chia (burning bush, when sprayed with paints makes fine filler). Also blue salvia and statice (pronounced Statues). All will bloom first year from seed started in spring. Try these items for winter bouquets.

A NEW HERB: I'm excited about a new herb, an ornamental one called Dark Opal, Leaves are purple-bronze, making it ideal as border plant. In summer it produces dainty spikes of lavender-white flowers.

This is one plant you can still have and eat it too. It's an ideal cooking herb. Plant it in combination with other flowers such as rose, pink, light lavender and white.

ENGLISH WALNUT: Is it hardy? Yes, if you use the hardy Carpathian strain. Ours has withstood 28 degs. below zero. If you want to try this one, be sure to plant 2 or more trees for "rooster" effect. Otherwise you'll have a crop of unfilled nuts.

If you're planting any fruit tree, make sure you provide for cross pollination by having 2 or more varieties. If you plant Bartlett and Seckel pears, plant a third variety as Bartlett and Seckel will not pollinate each other.

Sweet cherries need at least 2 trees for cross pollination, but sour cherries do not. Sour cherries will not pollinate sweet cherries, and vice versa, because they bloom at different days.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: F. R. of Stroudsburg: "I wanted to buy some peat moss from a garden store and the clerk told me that there were different types of peat. The Irish and Canadian peat-moss were better than anything you could buy locally. Please tell me what difference there is in the various peats."

It makes no difference where peat moss comes from. Generally speaking all peats are peats, and local peat is just as good as peat imported from Sweden, Poland, Ireland, Germany or Canada. It's a fallacy for gardeners to buy peat based on its point of origin.

All peat has the same conditioning effect on the soil: loosening up tight soils and tightening up loose ("sandy") soils. Peat has countless uses. One of them now is to sow seed and take cuttings. A half and half mixture of sand and peat makes an ideal material for starting seeds.

C.G. of Canadensis: "I heard that tea leaves make an excellent fertilizer for house plants. Does it make any difference which kind? Also I heard coffee grounds are harmful. Are they?"

Tea grounds have a small amount of nitrogen and must be considered a meager source of nutrients. They are useful in making heavy soils loosen, and tightening up sandy soils. Tea grounds added to pot plant soil certainly do no harm but you should not depend upon them for plant nutrients. Many use them in African Violet soil and feel the grounds enhance the colors.

Coffee grounds are useful in porch boxes, as a mulch and a soil conditioner. Being acid, they're ideal for azaleas, blueberries and other acid-loving items. Tea and coffee grounds have about 2 percent nitrogen, and are useful on the compost pile. Drip grounds are richer than those which have been boiled.

For house plants, I'd resort to liquid feeding instead of relying on the tea or coffee grounds alone. These are fine for the compost pile.

C.F. of Wind Gap: "We have a willow bush that gets covered with a black substance. Please tell me what can check it this year." Sooty mold gathers when aphids are present. Spray with malathion when leaves are out and you'll kill aphids which secrete a sticky honeydew that attracts the sooty mold. Willows also get Tar Spots, caused by another fungus.

Rake up and burn leaves now, and spray shrubs or trees in May with wettable sulfur. If the willows are small enough you can use a sulfur dust successfully.

The European Willow Beetle, small metallic-blue pest, like aphids, congregates by millions on willows. Two tbsps. of 50 percent DDT in a gallon of water and sprayed in late May gives good results. A second spraying in late June is often needed for polishing off the second generation of beetles.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figure give you.

The Daily Investor

Holding Companies

By William A. Doyle

Q. I have a chance to buy 100 shares of stock in a "holding company," at $8 a share. I have been told this stock will be worth $60 a share in two years. Would this be a good buy? Just what is a holding company?

A. A holding company is a corporation which owns the securities of one or more other companies. In most cases the holding company owns enough stock to have voting control of the one or more other companies.

Don't confuse this situation with investments companies (mutual funds, etc.) which invest in securities of other companies but which do not control those companies. And don't confuse it with certain manufacturing or other "operating" companies which own stocks in other companies.

A holding company might best be described as an "administrative" organization. The holding company sets policy and directs the operations of the companies whose stocks it owns. The holding company is the "parent" company. The companies whose stocks it owns are subsidiary companies.

There are some very fine holding companies. They include some of the big corporate names in American business. They come in all shapes and sizes.

But this doesn't mean that the stock someone is trying to peddle to you would be a good buy. That wild claim that the stock will rise from $8 to $60 in two years sounds like so much foolishness, or worse.

Any time you hear a high-pressure, boiler-plate statement such as that, the whole deal becomes suspect. My advice is to steer clear of it.

Q. You once wrote that the first thing a person should do in tracing the value of old stock certificates is to write to some state department. My father has passed away. Among his things, we found a certificate for 50 shares of stock he purchased years ago. What state department should we write to?

A. Write to the "Department of State" of the state in which the company was incorporated. You'll find the name of the state printed on the stock certificate. The Department of State will be located in the state capital.

(Please, dear readers, don't delude me with letters asking for the capitals of all 50 states. Look them up in the World Almanac.)

The Department of State will be able to tell you if the company's charter is still in effect and also give you other information about the stock.

Q. The brokerage house with which I do business has about 30 salesmen — "registered representatives," they call them — themselves. They call on customers regularly. It seems to me that I no longer buy some stock from one of them phones me or comes to my house and suggests that I sell and buy something else.

I suspect that these guys are more interested in generating buy and sell orders and collecting big commissions than they are in giving me good service. What do you say?

Altieris Attend Organ Showing

JOHN and Daniel Altieris, owners and managers of the Altieris Music Center, Stroudsburg, attended a demonstration of the new Kinsman Organ in New York City Tuesday.

The affair was held at the Barbizon-Plaza Hotel, 58th St. at Central Park and was given by the Kinsman Organ Company, of Lancaster, N.H.

Earl V. Kinsman, president of the company, was the main speaker.

A. That suspicion always crops up, under circumstances such as this. This is known as "churning the customer's account." If you're unhappy (and you may have reason to be) take your business to some other brokerage firm.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Another way in which your newspaper serves you

During the past eight years, this newspaper has cooperated with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by publishing, in the interests of public service, advertisements about safe driving.

During this same period of time, Pennsylvania's highway safety record has shown constant improvement, and, in 1961 was the best in history. Last year, with more vehicles and more miles traveled than ever before, there were fewer traffic deaths than in any post-war year, and the lowest traffic fatality rate of any major state in the nation. This achievement has earned for Pennsylvania the title, "The Safe Driver State."

While advertising alone cannot make people safe drivers, it has been an important factor in this state's efforts to make our streets, roads and highways safer for motorists and pedestrians.

As a motorist, you can well be proud of your part in making Pennsylvania "The Safe Driver State." And this newspaper, too, is proud of its contribution towards making Pennsylvania the home of the safest drivers in the nation.

This is but one example of how your newspaper not only provides your major source of news and information, but also works diligently for the good of all the people it serves.
